MARCH 2000

FROM THE CENTER SEAT

ATTENTION! On the 16th of March, the USS DaVinci will celebrate its 4th anniversary! To mark this illustrious occasion, we are having our annual anniversary party on Saturday the 18th of March beginning around 5 P.M.! There will be NO meeting on Thursday the 16th of March. Make sure to mark your calendars! As usual this will be a covered dish affair! Patty will bring her wonderful potatoes, Emma will bring her famous lasagna, Gisela will bring her luscious deviled eggs (and enough this time!), and of course, Joe will supply the cold pop. Now, if you agree to bring a dish or other condiments and then for whatever reason you cannot come, PLEASE call me!

Okay, scolding time! I scheduled a highway cleanup for the 5th of February and a total of one person showed up – me. People, this cannot go on for much longer. For the last six scheduled clean up days, five did not take place because too few personnel showed up. I have been threatening to give up the adopt-a-highway program, but each time I agree to give it “one more try.” I have had too many of these one more try’s, but feel that there must be a way to generate more interest. After all of that, I have decided to give it “one more try” so look for my usual plea in the near future.

Starfleet’s Region 2 is holding its annual “Sunny Summit” 10-12 March in Birmingham, AL. Several members from the DaVinci plan on attending. Although it is primarily a Starfleet function, you do not have to be a member of Starfleet to attend. If you are interested in attending this fun-filled event, please let me or Joe Perry know.

TREK BUZZ

Majel Barrett Roddenberry told Sci-Fi Wire that Paramount had rejected two Rick Berman/Brannon Braga ideas for a new Star Trek series: one featuring a young cast of characters, and another set on a "non-Federation outpost".

Sci-Fi Wire also noted rumor mill reports that Paramount is considering three other concepts: a Star Trek: Starfleet Academy show (which Paramount has specifically denied in the past) set after Deep Space Nine and involving a Starship commanded by veterans but crewed by cadets, one about a team of troubleshooters/strike force personnel (Star Trek: Alpha Squad) also set some time after DS9, and one set pre-Original Series (Star Trek: Enterprise).

In a TV Guide Online article, Star Trek was given an honorable mention in a list of most important television shows of all time.

Jonathan Frakes has signed to direct Steve Was Here, a sci-fi spoof about a town that stages a fake UFO landing to attract attention to itself. The film's executive producers are Independence Day writer/producers Dean Devlin and Roland Emmerich.

Writer/producer Ron Moore discussed his quick arrival and departure from the Voyager staff, saying "It just turned into this other thing, and it was this bad trip, and it was a bad place to work, and it was an unhappy experience.... I was surrounded by people [who] were unhappy working there, and didn't like their own show, and weren't pleased with the people they were working with." He also noted problems working with producer Brannon Braga and with feeling excluded from the creative process.

James Doohan is getting ready to beam up a baby girl just weeks after his 80th birthday. Doohan and his wife, Wende, are expecting their first daughter April 1, Doohan's agent Steven Stevens said Friday. Doohan, who played Scotty the engineer on the original series, turns 80 on March 3. Doohan and his 44-year-old wife have two sons, 21 and 23. The couple were not trying to get pregnant, Stevens said.

Inge Heyer is a data analyst for the Space Telescope Science Institute at Johns Hopkins. She also makes appearances at numerous Trek conventions giving shows on the Hubble Telescope and the Solar System. To see some awe-inspiring photographs visit <http://sol.stsci.edu/~heyer/>.

Want to watch the next Shuttle mission live? Well, go to <http://spaceflight.nasa.gov/index-n.html>. And, when they are ready to launch be sure to watch the entire mission live. Tune your browser to <http://www.broadcast.com/events/nasa/>.

Did you like the movie "Contact" with Jodie Foster? Remember the SETI program? It's the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence. Ever wonder if there is intelligent life out there in the great beyond? You can help look for those little green men by analyzing raw telescope data that was recorded by the Arecibo Radio Observatory. It's a real time project pioneered by a few Berkeley brains. Thanks to Dateline: Starfleet for the information!

QUOTABLES

..."If I was in charge, I would get us home either at the end of this season or early on in the next. Can you imagine the stories that could evolve out of that premise? The Maquis are criminals; Tom Paris is supposed to be in jail; Seven of Nine is a Borg! The possibilities are absolutely endless."

Kate Mulgrew on her thoughts of possible plot directions for Voyager to head toward.
